presenting the WIGWAM of 1947

The Cover

The cover drawing is wholly original, especially designed for the Wigwam edition. The man represents Janus, a mythical character of ancient Rome whose head had two faces. He was said to be capable of looking into the past equally as well as predicting the future.

It Is Our Hope

That this annual, like any other high school annual should, will be one of the memories that you take with you from school and cherish with pride and self esteem... Not only because it is your Alma Mater but also because of the deep attraction that has made you glad to be a part of this grand institution.

It is our hope that the following pages will provide you with many hours of real enjoyment—during mirth, and happiness and loneliness and despair... Hours that will give you much relaxation as you look over the familiar faces of your friends, the classrooms where you studied, the clubs where you made friendships and accepted responsibility and the athletic contests where you participated or stood on the sidelines and cheered the team to victory—taking defeat along with victory as we must do all through our lives.

We hope that each time you leaf through these pages whether ten, fifteen or twenty-five years hence, perhaps in the living room of your home, the picture stories and their explanations printed herein will recall vividly to your mind with true realism, the many happy times and profound memories that you witnessed during your school days of 1946 and 1947 at Warren.

Ultimately, it is our hope that you will find in this big world, all the success that could possibly be bestowed upon humanity and such a fine group of young men and women as yourselves.

To 1947 Graduates:

Within the scope of your useful years the findings in science and the many developments that have come from these findings should bring to you the most glorious years any generation has ever experienced.

Possibilities however are not a guarantee of a realization of the best. The good world in your lifetime will be about you and with you and for you to the extent that your generation and the generations immediately ahead of you and back of you are willing to be guided by basic principles that embody service and good will and love to and for all mankind.

Your Principal

. . . Meet The Deans . . .

Mrs. Myrtle Rodden

"Look! Here come our deans!"

Mrs. Myrtle Rodden, Dean of Girls, has been with Warren Central for twenty-two years. She, at the present time, holds the office of vice-principal of our school.

Our girls' dean, who is a very pleasing and understanding person, is a very busy woman. Besides her many other duties, Mrs. Rodden has a Second Year Latin Class which requires a lot of her time.

Our other dean, Mr. Fred Rodebeck, has been affiliated with Warren Central eighteen years. He is our present Dean of Boys and teacher of advanced bookkeeping. Since a few boys often have the tendency to get on the wrong path, you can find Mr. Rodebeck in his office helping them.

If you pass through the cafeteria, you will find him busily working away. Oh! Yes! He buys much of our food.

Mr. Fred Rodebeck

Here Is Our Nurse . . .

We wish to express our gratitude to the persons shown on this page for the services they have rendered for us and for the good friends they have been to us. We have appreciated their untiring efforts and kind attitudes.

Mrs. Alma Taylor

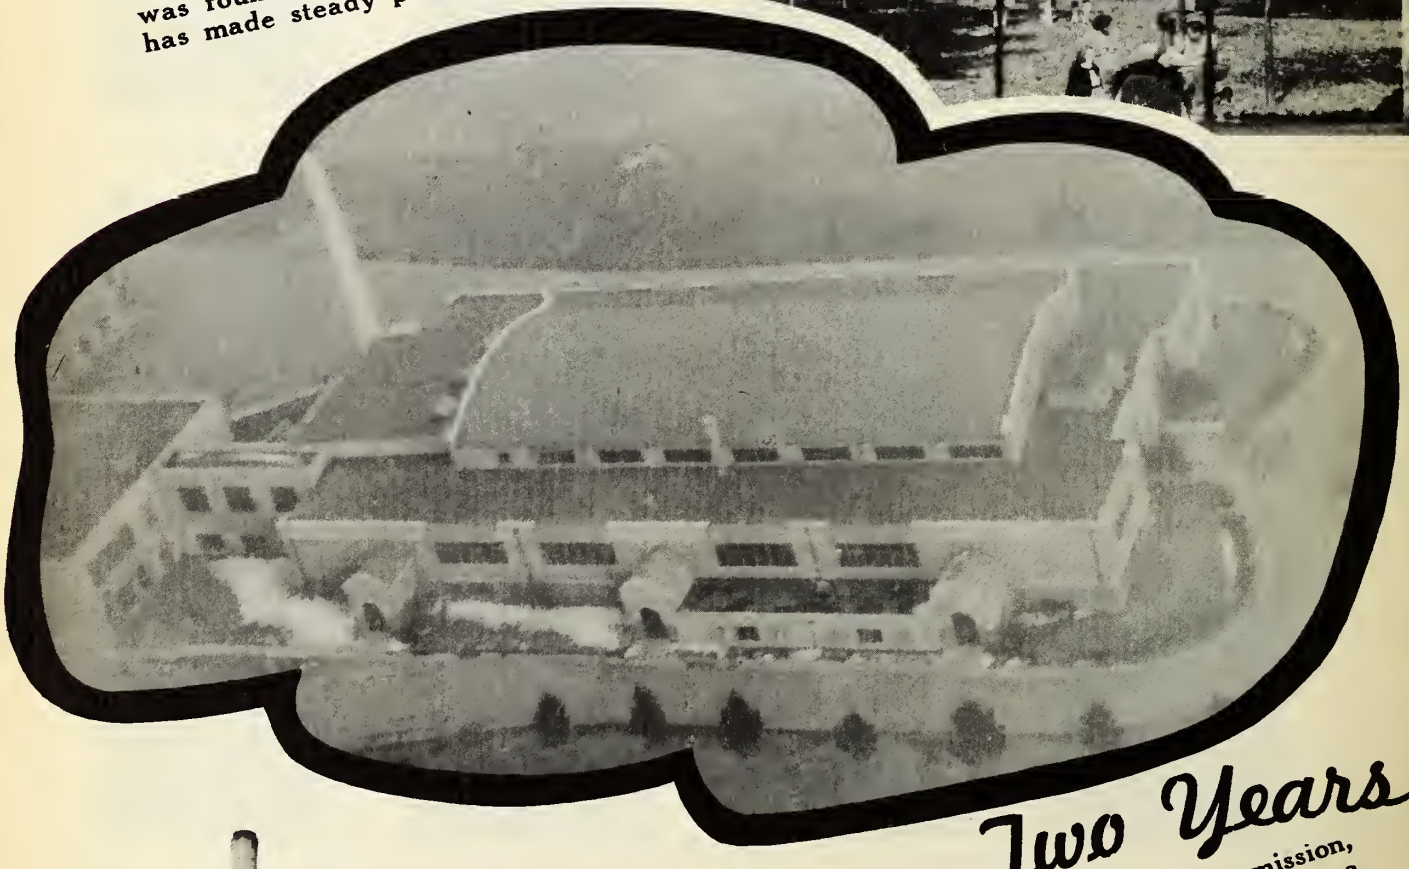
Institution of Learning

Even when our school was in its infancy back in 1925, it was a great institution of learning. Although the courses offered were fewer, there was much gained. Not only has knowledge been gained through books, but our school has always given us opportunities to learn in the social lines. Being fair, honest, responsible, courteous, trustworthy, and ability to take our place in the world are subjects which we have received without being in special classes dealing with them.

Way back in January of 1925, Warren was founded. Since that time our school has made steady progress.



For Twenty-Two Years

In 1933-35 we received the first-class commission, and in 1942 we had the great honor of becoming a member of the North Central Association.

Since the beginning of Warren's history there has been many changes. Room 16 used to be the assembly room and our present library used to be the gymnasium. Two of the subjects not offered were commerce or instrumental music. Three of the teachers with us now were here back in '25. They are Mr. C. E. Eash, principal; Mrs. Myrtle Rodden, vice-principal, and Mr. Walter Mowry.

But let us read this message . . .

Once again another school year has come to the end, and another class has been graduated. Each year the seniors have a certain routine that they must follow, yet there are certain distinctions which have and will occur that make them all different.

During the last generation, as we all know, the people did not have as many opportunities as we of today have. Many of them were not privileged to attend school for the World War I was in progress. Thus most of the young people were either fighting or helping at home. Another cause of non-schooling was lack of money and interest in the school. Consequently the completion of high school education came out of the first world war.

Just about thirty years later another world war was fought. This time youths were able to attend school and also could help fight by gathering essentials as tin cans, iron, and grease. Having needed better and entirely different equipment, science has made possible more chances for us seniors to serve. Since the students of today have more interest in higher education, more interest in college degrees has resulted from this second world war.

Also, resulting from this war, there have been many opportunities founded in the fields of medicine, in photography, in foods, and in the knowledge of using our rare elements for different and more useful purposes. Some of these advantages are not entirely for the best. For instance, the A-bomb. We, instead of using it for destructive purposes, should use it to serve humanity better.

In the medicine field, many medicines have been compounded which bring quicker relief and help overcome some of the rare maladies. Food values were stressed. As the fighting members needed certain items to keep them strong, we at home learned how to use other foods and at the same time received the necessary nutritive value.

Remember "opportunity only knocks once." So as the world of today has given us seniors of '47 more opportunities to learn, explore, and serve, we wish the succeeding seniors richer and more abundant opportunities for study and service.

And make this dedication

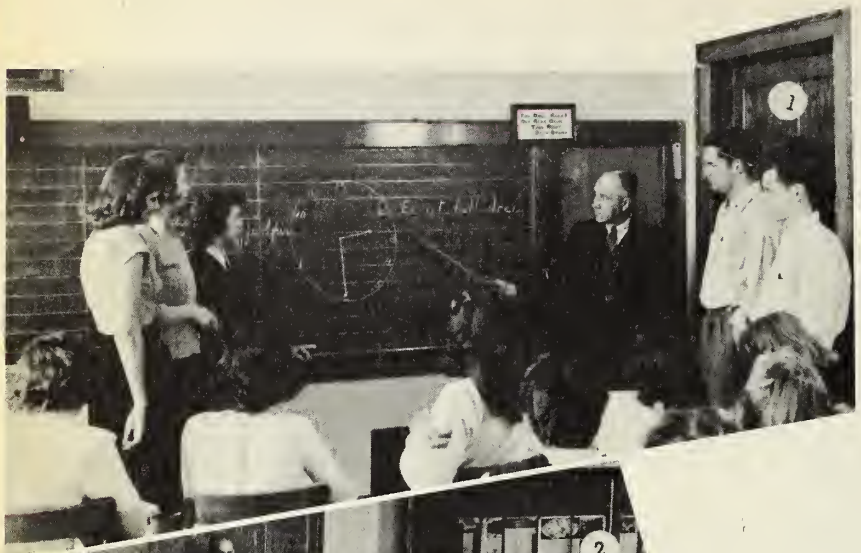
Readin' And Writin' And Arithmetic Are Essential



(1) Pauline Schaekel, Barbara Slentz, Carole Oertel, Jim Winters, and Bob Stevens are among the members of the German Class who are interested in the learning of German phrases of time. Both the first and second year classes were held the second period, and must have kept Mr. Eash pretty busy.

(2) A new class, World Geography was watched with interest by many people and received writeups in the Indianapolis papers as well as those in the Owl. Geography was studied from an economic point of view. Present-day problems were discussed to give students information which can be used in everyday life.

(3) Mary Clark presses a jacket while Betty Gouker, Nita Gates, and Donna Goodrich sew and Carole Singleton helps Mary Bader fit a housecoat which she made in advanced clothing.

(4) Speech was one of the busiest classes at Warren this year not only giving plays but speech contests and many other activities. Shown here rehearsing a play are Eddie Windle, Jack Fowler, Elaine Weddell, James Winninger, Kendrick Hatt, Myra Mahrling, Beverly Stanton, Rosemary Shepherd, Mary Bader, and Donna Goodrich.

(5) Roland Pond, Leroy Hunter and Fred Baker are shown using some of the their classrooms . . .

But—We Picked Up A Few Other Things Here An' There machines in the shop class.

(6) Ann Goold watches Dick Hon as he boils chemicals in making a test. Leland Reich is making a smoke screen, Eugene Reeves is stirring a mixture, Phil Krug pours HCL in a graduate, and Eddie Fredricks watches as Jim Curry makes a flame test, and Paul Sparks filters with suction in one of the advanced chemistry classes. How those chemistry classes stood those awful smells is beyond us, but they didn't seem to mind.

(7) Click, clack, click, clack! As you wandered around study hall almost any period of the day you would hear this noise coming from Room 10. But never fear the room isn't falling down. It's only the typing classes pounding away at their "budgets." Miss Townsend is shown here preparing the advanced typing class for their next assignment.

(9) Government is one of the required subjects. It helps pupils to understand their government and the way it is run. It strives to make better citizens of us

'Gone to the dogs Lucile Lueckert, No. 1. That's Elmer sitting by her. Don't let that old jalopy in No. 2 fool you. It's Doreen Sanders sprawled on the sidewalk about sixteen years ago. "Ahoy you land lubbers, rig the ship," says Kenny Tuxhorn, No. 3. The little guy in No. 4 isn't Nero cause by heck he said his name was Jack Fowler. Cowgirl Joan Powell, No. 5 says, "I like 'em wild." Another daring horseman, Bill Harris, No. 6, reels off one of those Roy Rogers poses.

'In the Good old winter time.' Betty Folkening, No. 7, and a friend enjoy this winter sport. What's this in No. 8? Is that a towel Jo Ann Fouch is wearing? Oh me! No. 9 is Frank Toon. The nerve of the guy trying to monopolize.

P. A. H. Not 'Public Animal Haulers' but Roland Pond, Leonard Arnold, and Bill Harris in No. 10. That's Rosemary Bevis and Virginia Morris hoisted atop the fenders in No. 11. A picnic is in progress in No. 13. Jim Curry looks surprised. Could it be ants in his pants? No. 14 shows Miss Sweatergirls of '47, Mabel Ping and Jo Ann Fouch. That's the cat girl or should we say Ann Goold in No. 15. Turn over that propeller Eugene Barker, No. 16. Let's hear that motor roar. "Strike three . . . You're out," implies the husky chap in No. 17. It looks like Ralph Smith.

'Open the Door Richard!' Peggy Spriggs, No. 18, peeks between two giant pillars. No. 19 shows Pauline Hill trying to practice animal training or something. This beautiful hunk of a boy in No. 20 is Leonard Arnold. Goo! Goo! He must be frightened by the camera—just look at his hair. "Come on in, the water is nice and cold" says Ed Fredrick, No. 22, as he takes a dip in Lake Michigan.

Is Dale Monroe proposing in No. 22 or just scratching Snook's fleas? 'Ah, yes, my Romeo.' Don West and Jim Curry enact the scene as Bill Simpson and Ed Fredrick take the part of the supporting cast.

These Kiddies Look Busily Engaged In Their Work

(1) In the Biology laboratory, Delores Gumberts, Mary Beaver, June Overton, and Delores Brown are industriously preparing their lessons, while Don Jackson and Larry Crosley satisfy their curiosity by peering at slides and butterfly wings through a high-powered microscope.

(2) Have you heard students going about gibbering mysterious incantations or discussing declensions (whatever those are?) If you have, don't think we have a few inmates from a mental hospital enrolled, or a clan of witches plotting against the school. They're just students from Miss Kinnison's Latin class, trying to figure out their assignment.

(3) "Clip 'im one," "Atta boy," "Slug 'im! !" Shouts ring out as interested spectators follow the flying fists, the dancing and ducking bodies. It's Mr. Nolte's fifth period Physical Fitness class, with Denzil Jones and Alan Miedema engaging in "a bit of fisticuffs," which is one way of saying they're having a good time at a typical boys' sport.

Is It An Actuality Or Is It Posed For the Photographer?

isfied (and justifiably so) with her painting of a little country church.

(6) Tom Robling, Jimmy Morris, Joe Ballard, and Glenn Willets at work in the Warren print shop.

(8) Mrs. Stricker and her fourth period Home Economics class conduct a luncheon prepared by themselves in the foods laboratory. These girls were often called upon to serve at luncheons, teas, and dinners taking place at the school.

(9) While Lynn Stephenson and Russel Houze look occupied with the transit, John Prange looks knowing and Bob Schilling appears puzzled as they survey the motor on the table in the agriculture room. Julius Mithoefer looks preoccupied (could it be Lucille?) as Billy Hilton busies himself with a separate project.

We Find Time To Play

(1) Louise Richey being glamoursly informal (2) Ivan Cordrey, Margie Davis, Betty McKenzie, and Betty Mowry in a breezy mood (3) Ivan and Don Arthur. Look at those grins.

(4) George Ostheimer sure looks like George Raft, hmm, girls? (5) Doril Crabtree and Renna Essick are pulling that old Saturday night pastime, but it's more fun this way. (6) Mark Gale, in his tender stage. (7) The Sophisticated Sophomores. (8) I-yi-yi Marion. Mademoiselle Hon supplies the cheese-cake for this page. (9) The O.S.S. Sub-Deb Club officers. (10) Yippee! Carlos (Monty) Montgomery is rearing to go.

(11) Richard Deer playing basketball. (12) Bill and Joan Featherstone were sure cute at that age. (13) Robert Crumbo. (14) I've been workin' on the railroad! Bob Folkening grins at the camera, but wonder if he really likes diggin' fox-holes?

(15) Betty McKenzie and her man Bill. (16) Dick Hawkins and John Frederick pay no attention to the beautiful ladies behind them. Could be they don't appreciate art! (17) David Ostheimer seems to be taking off like a big bird. Nice basketball, David. (18) Don Borgman imitating "The Thinker." (19) Renna Essick and Doril Crabtree make fun of work. Get busy on those clothes, girls. (20) Betty Eytchison at 13 months.

(22) Joan and Jane Tossel, a couple of cute bathing beauties. (21) Bill Deer, you shocking boy! Tsk, tsk. You get back to class where you belong.

(23) What's this? Did the geography class bring in some Hawaiians to tell them about their beautiful island? No, couldn't be. Gee whiz, it's Guy Boyer and Johnny DeWitt. How 'bout a hula, girls (oops) I mean, boys?

A Halloween Parade in Irvington

Carnegie Hall Haint Heard Nuttin' Yet

None of these musicians have entertained at Carnegie Hall but from a survey of the first places they have won and the listening appeal they have garnered, it is promising that some higher musical attainment is in the making.

Much credit for these noted performances goes to Paul Hamilton, pictured at left. It is a difficult task to acquire such perfection in the few short periods devoted to practice. Besides participating in many during-school-time functions, they gave spring, fall, and mid-winter concerts.

Next year's band (lower right) will be minus seniors Bob Day, Bob Byrkett, Betty Lou Haymaker, and Paula Koehring, while orchestra (upper left) will be shy Jack Fowler, Margaret James, and Jacquelyn Bernhart.

and Orchestra

With Senior Chorus and Madrigal rendering vocals

Sweet Music Comes From 85 Voices

Thirty-six new members joined the ranks of Senior Chorus in the fall bolstering the size of this chorus to eighty-five.

Their voices could be heard throughout the old building during the fifth period practices.

The Choral Festival, consisting of 500 voices, was the first program. It was under the direction of Kathleen Hergt, school director, pictured in the circle.

Other musical presentations included a Musical Comedy Revue sandwiched between spring and fall concerts. The last major program was the City-County Choral Festival held at Ben Davis.

Select Eightsome Satisfy Lovers of Good Music

Senior Chorus might have been larger and had more volume, but they didn't have any more harmony than the eight persons seated at right who composed our Madrigal.

We wouldn't want to brag about their popularity but they had ample engagements to fill. Jack Fowler especially enjoyed the programs where meals were concerned.

Places where they entertained include the Columbia Club, Riley Hospital, Irvington Methodist Church, Claypool Hotel, Block's, Ayres' and from the Circle.

Authentic Newspaper Life Experienced By Owl Staff

Members of the Owl staff put out nineteen editions of their bi-weekly publication. At mid-term the paper was enlarged from four columns to a five column paper.

Annual Proves Most Elaborate Wigwam Ever Printed

This is the most elaborate yearbook yet, to be composed for Warren students. Much can be said for the progress since the days when the yearbook was mimeographed or run off on the school press.

Predetermined estimates of the actual cost of production hovers near the thirteen hundred dollar mark.

The Wigwam, co-edited by Ken Tuxhorn and Ann Goold, upper left, surpasses past editions not only in cost but also in style, design and size. A portion of the books were attractively finished with hard bound, imitation leather covers.

Other Wigwam staff members include Lucille Williams, faculty; Doreen Sanders, senior section, and Betty McKenzie, underclassmen.

Art work is accredited to Pat Eberhart; activities, Margaret Higginbotham and Joan Powell; clubs, Jackie Kirby, and sports, Ken Tuxhorn.

A different method of production other than the usual process of press printing has been used. This was adopted partly as an experiment and partly for financial reduction. The method used, called offset printing, is a process of chemical transposition.

And clubs like Hi -

A Trifle Younger But Willing To Duplicate

These boys are a trifle younger, but under Mr. Irvin Dinn they should be better trained and more ably equipped for future Hi-Y work. This was the first year of Junior Hi-Y's existence.

Officials of the club were George Ostheimer, president; Lloyd White, vice president; Jim Peters, secretary; Bruce Fowler, treasurer, and George Groenert, sergeant-at-arms.

Shown in the circle at left are Jim Curry, Ralph Smith and Dick Hon helping execute the mile of dimes campaign conducted by Hi-Y clubs throughout the state for the purpose of sending clothing to peoples in foreign devastated countries. Warren was third in the state to answer the call.

Fellowship Has A Promising Tomorrow

Clean speech, clean sports, clean living, and clean scholarship are the four C's symbolizing Hi-Y.

A limited contingent of fifty junior and senior boys, under the leadership of Mr. Ralph Clevenger, carried on a successful, well rounded program.

Jim Curry, besides the local club presidency, had the honor of serving as district president. Other officers were Jack Fowler, vice president; Charles Swarm, treasurer; Phil Krug, secretary, and Jim Winters, sergeant-at-arms.

Spring and fall conferences were conducted at Ben Davis and Decatur Central respectively. Since Hi-Y boys always like to eat, food found connection with most activities. Especially the annual Father and Son Banquet at Buckley's where Wally Nehrling was guest speaker.

Breakfast at the Y.M.C.A. on Palm Sunday and a wiener roast at Artesian Park with cider, donuts, ghost stories and singing, highlighted the away-from-home activities.

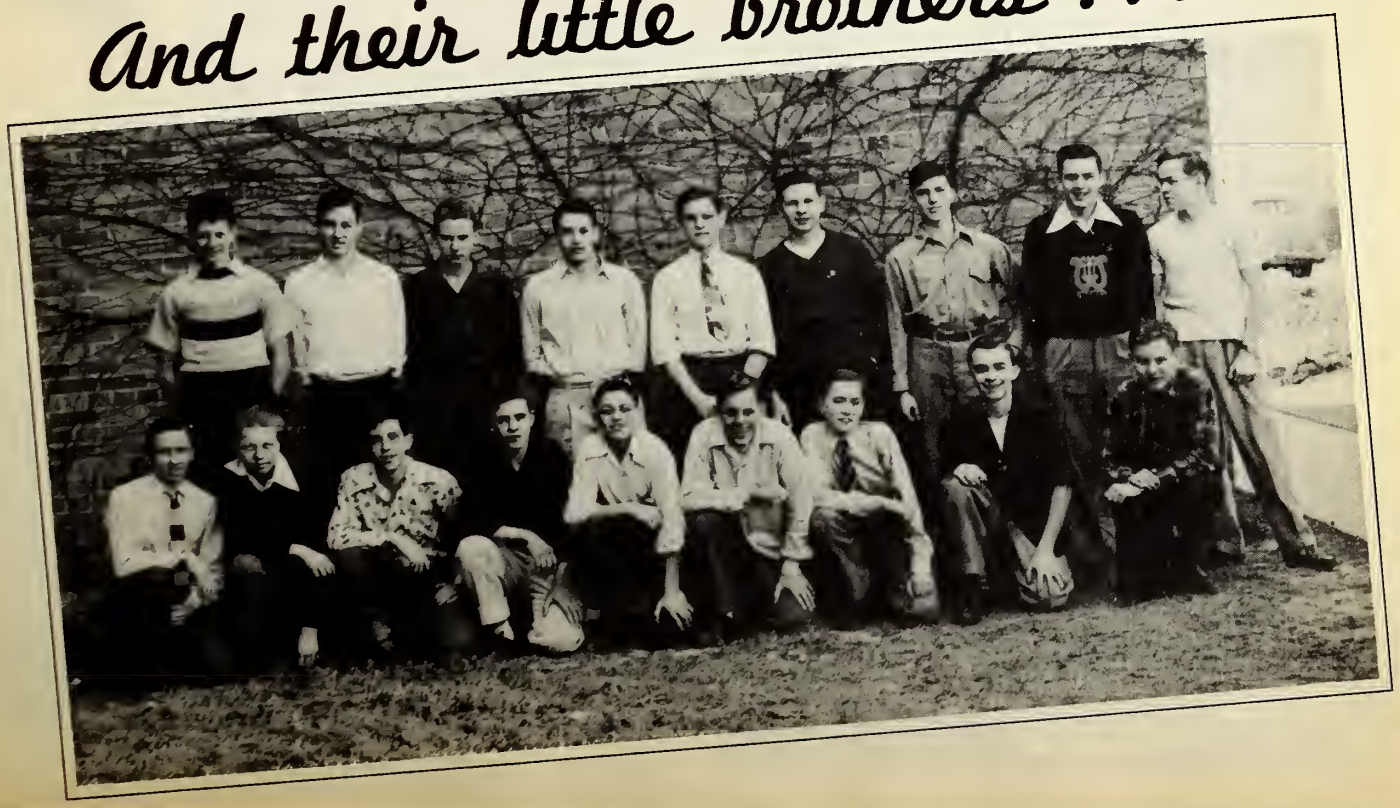
And their little brothers . . .



Warrenettes

Association Of Girls Betters Relations

"The Post Road," a monologue, was a feature attraction of the Warrenettes' biggest event of each year—the Mother and Daughter Tea. Rosemary Shepherd as Mrs. Forbes, Beverly Stanton as Henrietta Duchane, and Mary Bader as Miss Cary were the actors. Other features were four selections sung by the Glee Club and a vocal solo by Dorothy Thomas.

Members of the Mother Tea Committee (in heart-shaped insert) were Mary Frances Fivecoats, Pat Ashley, Betty Folkening, Doreen Sanders, Barbara Hoy, and Pat Eberhart.

Officers of this club are Betty Folkening, president; Carole Oretel, vice president; Barbara Hoy, secretary; Pat Ashley, treasurer; Alice Jean Amos and Beverly Stanton, sergeants-at-arms, and Peggy Spriggs, chaplain.

The Warrenette Club sponsored by Mrs. Myrtle Rodden, vice-principal, holds the title of being the oldest club at Warren.

Activities which the Warrenettes co sponsored with the Senior Hi-Y were the dances. Among them were the Sadie Hawkins Dance, Christmas Dance, and the Spring Dance.

The Warren Warriors fans this year had a lot more fun due to the Sunshine Club's willing workers. It was that club which made the colored mops for us to carry to the County Tourney and the Sectionals.

Officers of this club are Joyce Hancock, president; Joan Tossel, vice president; Roberta McConnell, recording secretary; Barbara Gale, corresponding secretary, and Miriam Dorrel, treasurer.

Making scrapbooks for children's hospital wards seems to bring enjoyment and pleasure for these little misses. The little misses, which are all eighth grade girls, belong to the Sunbeam Club.

More pleasure came from selling bangle pins at Christmas and helping in the Easter drive.

Officers are: presidents—Margaret Kirk and Janie Tossell; vice-presidents: Rosemary Shaw and Judy Githens; secretaries: Patty Huntsinger and Jane Humphrey; treasurers: Wilma Osborn and Frances Wilson; program committee for 8^2-8^4: Beverly Mahuring. chairman, Janice Case, and Shirley Pope; and 8^1-8^3: Nadine Price, chairman, Carole Atkinson and Yolanda Beery.

Sergeant-at-arms of 8^2-8^4: Mary Rogers and Devorbia McDuffie, 8^1-8^3: Gaynelle VanSickle and Margaret Groenert.

Miss Cleo Kinnison, sponsor, meets with them three times a week.

Journalists Get Special Honor On Merit

These young journalists, some of whom might be headed toward a successful career in the field of journalism, are all members of the Quill and Scroll International Honorary Society for High School Journalists.

Officers of the local chapter were Ken Tuxhorn, president, and Jacquelyn Kirby, secretary.

A candlelight initiation was held during the year. The new members elected to the organization were Betty Pressel, Betty McKenzie, Vera Littleton, Barbara Perkins, Lucille Williams, Evelyn Gilstrap, Joan Powell, Mac Keithley, Don Morgan, and Jesslyn Ball.

A theater dinner party was held at the home of the sponsor. Ann Goold entertained at Christmas, and Jackie Kirby gave a party for the club March 19.

19 Seniors Meet Standards of High Rating

The purpose of the Senior Honor Society is to promote leadership, scholarship, service, and character.

Leland Reich is the president, Dorothy Thomas, Peggy Spriggs, and Nell Marie Kinzel are the other officers.

An induction was held in March and twenty new members were initiated. They are: seniors—Alice Jean Amos, Jacquelyn Bernhart, Patricia Eberhart, Georgialee Hyatt, Phillip Krug, Carole Oertel, Celest Polter, Gail Prange, and Don West. The juniors are Jesslyn Ball, Rodney Dunham, Betty Eytchison, Ted Fleetwood, Mary Hoffert, Barbara Hoy, Willard McIntyre, Anita Prange, Virginia Rodebeck, and Lucille Williams.

Officers this year were George Ostheimer, president; Bill Deer, vice president; Helen Glende, secretary, and Betty Dammrich, treasurer.

A candlelight ceremony inaugurated new members into the society. Sophomore electees were Effie Mae Bottema, Catherine Collins, Lida Koehring, Sylvia Merrill, and Lila Lee La Mere.

No Activities Period Swallows Hope of Continuation

These were the members of the Historical Society this year. However, this might have been the last year of existence for the club due to the lack of an activity period to hold meetings.

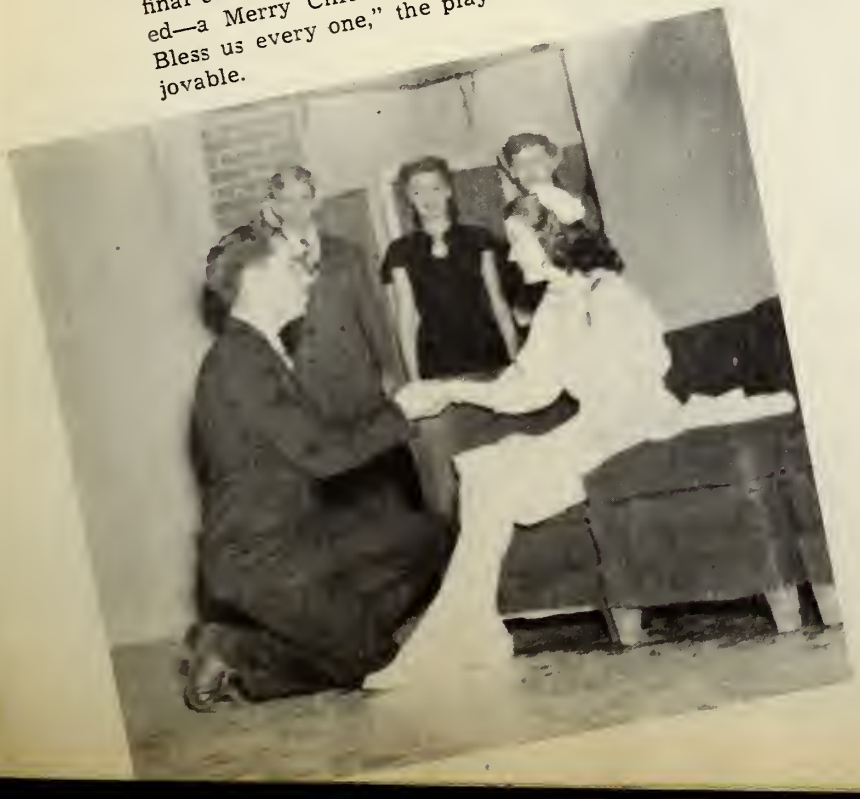
Speech Department Presents Play At Christmas Time

The Christmas Play was given this year by the speech class, and directed by Mrs. Lola Pence. The play was called "Pop Reads the Christmas Carol." The characters were: Mr. Jones, a busy, middle-aged, business man, who likes to come home at night to a "little peace and quiet"; Mrs. Jones, played by Elaine Weddell; Paul Jones, the older son, portrayed by Eddie Windle; Junior Jones, the irrepressible kid brother, hectically acted by Kendrick Hatt; Mary Jones, the sister, who was played by Mary Eilers; Jane, Paul's girl friend, acted by Myra Mahrling; and Jack, Mary's boy friend, played by Jim Wininger.

The play concerns the time Mr. Jones has trying to read the "Christmas Carol" to his family. With Junior trying to find the Christmas presents, which he is sure are hidden somewhere; kissing under the mistletoe, and the laugh which follows Junior's announcement that "Mary paid me 50c to put up that mistletoe"; and the final curtain speech "as Tiny Tim observed—a Merry Christmas to all, and God Bless us every one," the play is very enjovable.



"Life With Clarence" Version Enacted By Juniors

Clarence Dany announces one peaceful morning that he needs a new suit, but Father is not one to give in to such a request and firmly puts his foot down. After that there's never a dull moment for Clarence and his brother John mix "dog medicine" in their mother's tea, Cousin Cora and her friend Mary pop in and out at the worst times, and mother buys fifteen dollar china dogs.

This is just a glimpse of the highly amusing junior play, "Life With Clarence," which was presented May 5 and 6.

Willard McIntyre played the part of the highly confused Clarence, Rodney Dunham was Father Day, Beverly Stanton played the part of mother; Howard Timmerman was John, Patricia Ashley was Cousin Cora, Jesslyn Ball was Mary, and Betty Eytchison played the part of the maid.

Alice Amos Reigns As 'Fiesta of the Flowers' Queen

The Spring Dance called the Fiesta of the Flowers was held in the school gymnasium May 9. The name Fiesta of the Flowers was appropriate and fitting for the affair.

Besides the usual gay crepe decorations there was a distinct flavor of spring, the beauty of actual and artificial spring flowers.

Alice Jean Amos was elected Queen of the May Dance. Her court consisted of Betty Folkening, Dot Thomas, Beverly McClintick and Ruth Wukasch.

Max Wilson and his orchestra provided the music for the dance.

Lil' Elmer Wiese and Dot Thomas were perfest standins for Lil' Abner and Daisy Mae.

The girls liked the idea of being able to ask that dream man of hers and we doubt if the boys had any objection to letting the girls spend their money for once. Dancing with that certain "fella" was even better to the swell music of Max Wilson and his orchestra.

The dance which came at the end of the football season was in honor of the football boys. Members of the team received a cake and were congratulated on the season's record by Mr. Vaughn Wood, football coach.

We had a Christmas Dance, too, but all the photographers were so busy dancing that the dance slipped by without getting any pictures.

They Helped Out At Athletic Contests

The Pep Club does quite a bit to keep up the team's morale. They memorize the cheers, and help the yell leaders to get the ball rolling. With Rosey Shepherd as president, and Carole Singleton as vice-president, we had a mighty peppy pep club.

Don Borgman, George Groenert, and Bruce Fowler officiated as managers of the 1946-47 athletic teams.

Hail the cheer-leaders! Those acrobatic little bundles of dynamite who rally 'round the team at every game to bring the school spirit of each fan to a fever pitch. At lower left we have the kids, better known as Bev, Lila, Lida, Elmer, and Dot. The high-flyer is Lida.

Practice Drills Or The Actual Game —Both Rugged

It's not only the actual game that is rough and rugged but also practices. Many of the twisted ankles, dislocated shoulders and bruises came from the latter.

Best Basketball Squad To Play For Warren

This is the best cage squad yet to be tutored by skipper Ralph Clevenger, (photo 12). In access of being the first Warren team to reach a sectional final, they racked up a creditable 75 per cent winning barrage on 18 triumphs out-of 24 contests.

Other varsity members include sophomores Ed Wieland, photo 7; George Osthemier, No. 8; Bill Deer, No. 9, and Allan Mediema, No. 10.

New Records Set In Sectional Advance

Playing in the final game of the Indianapolis Sectional and missing a trip to the regional by only 5 points at the hands of Southport is not the only new record the boys have unveiled. They scored a season total of 930 points, 169 more than a recent 761 high.

In city competition, the locals annexed all but two of their hardwood foes. But these two surviving quintets, Washington and Broad Ripple, suffered defeat at the hands of the Warriors when the game counted most.

Washington faltered 36 to 29 in the final game of the Holiday Tourney. This was the same day that Shortridge stood in the way of a blistering attack and fell victim, too. Broad Ripple tasted defeat in the semi-final round of the sectional. The 48 to 43 verdict came when the boys were at their peak and had already sent Howe and Cathedral to the showers.

The center photo was taken during the first game of the sectional played between Warren and Howe. Warren won the thriller by one point.

Good Performers Spark Cinder Triumphs

Although many of Warren's track wins can be accredited to an evenly balanced team, a runover of the summaries shows that individual performers sparked many of the meets.

The locals turned the Continentals 63-51. Jim and Ed are still tired but they look a trifle more natural in photo 4.

It can be said that the whole gang was pretty jubilant with another county championship under their belts. It's a flying finish in photo 6 as quarter-miler Rodney Dunham streaks across the finish line.

Main Secret Is Endurance And Wind Supply

The biggest secret in track, if it can be stated as a secret, is endurance and a good wind supply. In the field of events it takes more practice than anything else.

What's this? Girl Athletes

Girls Find It's Fun To Have Athletics

These girls, all members of the Girls Athletic Association, enjoy taking part in sports too. They don't participate in anything strenuous like football, basketball or track, but they do get training that helps keep bodies in good physical trim.

But'ere we say good-bye

After looking through this book of our history of 1946 and '47, we, the members of the senior class, happen to realize that it is near the end of our high school days.

For four years we have been looking toward our graduation—thinking only of the end of school and not stopping to realize that graduation means goodbye.

Only after it is so close to the end do we realize how much our high school days have meant to us—all of our friendships and associations that we shall long remember, the classroom training we received, and all the activities which have given enjoyment.

This education is only the beginning. All through our lives education will continue. We are now confronted with larger responsibilities and graver problems. All three, planning, preparation, and training, count in the Battle of Life.

We must not just depend on the above three, but we must put our learnings to use for happy and successful lives.

As we all know, success is never easy—it is only through confidence and perserverance that it is achieved. We must tackle the problems that confront us, no matter how difficult they may seem.

As we close the pages of this yearbook, we will also be closing the pages of our high school lives, but not forgetting our friends, teachers, and incidents that occurred.

While we, the graduates, go out into the world determined that these years of preparation haven't been in vain, we wish success and happiness to be reflected in the lives of all students that follow us.
